

The Rednal Rag

REDNAL HILL INFANT SCHOOL
Number 24 – 15th March 2019

Science Week

School has been buzzing all week with investigations and experiments. The children have enjoyed visiting different classrooms and completing a range of challenges from making a lava lamp (learning that oil and water don't mix), inflating a balloon without blowing into it (learning that bicarbonate of soda gives off a gas when mixed with water) and playing under a class parachute with a torch (learning which materials reflect light best) were just a few of the investigations on offer. Staff were especially proud of the excellent learning behaviour and manners shown by our children throughout the week.

And finally ... a big thank you to everyone for supporting Family Friday today. The turn out was amazing, the Mad Scientist costumes and hair styles were fantastic and so many families had carefully designed and made vessels/boats to test together.

Thank you– it was evidence of real partnership between parents and school.

Well done to Oak Class for their entertaining assembly. The children shared their work confidently and sang beautifully.

We especially enjoyed watching them use their Disco Dough!

Ash Class assembly is next Tuesday 19th March. Parents and friends of Ash Class are very welcome to join us in the Hall at 9am.

Doors open 8.45am, School Day Ends 3.20pm
